

Directions to Gwaenynog, SY21 0LJ:

From Welshpool – journey time approx 25 minutes

Follow the signs for the A458 – signposted Dolgellau and Machynlleth, heading west for approx 10 miles.

Once through Cyfronydd, there is a right turn signposted Dolanog and Meifod on the B4389. It's on a sharp left bend on the A458, but there is a filter lane for turning right.

NB: If you are towing, please continue on to the turning at the A495, after Llanfair Caereinion, where it's marked Melin-y-Ddol on the map above - as the little B4382 road described below is very narrow in places.

You take the second left, signposted Dolanog B4382 (on the corner is a caravan park called Pen y Pentre).

At the crossroads, go straight across. It's also signposted to Dolanog on B4382. (fyi – right is signposted to Meifod and left to Dolgellau/Machynlleth.)

After approx two miles (it does seem longer, but keep going) take the second left and you head up the hill. Look out for our yellow sign.

(Should you miss this turning and end up in the village, you can take an alternate route – before the bridge in Dolanog, take this left turn – using the left fork. Then follow this up the hill for about 1 mile. After passing the crossroads at the top, we're about 300 yards on the left, set-back from the road. Be warned, this lane is quite narrow in places.) Do not use this if you are towing!

At the junction at the top, you turn left. The signpost says Dolanog to the right... (Any satnav will be pointing you to turn right at this junction, but that is to the next door farm.) Look out for our yellow sign.

Once turned left, our drive is the first on the left after about 300 yards, set-back from the road. (There's another yellow sign!) There are signs with Gwaenynog on either side of the drive and the drive is about 150 yards, then park front into the white chain fence.

Our Ordnance Survey reference is: SJ 080112; or long/lat reference is: 308013, 311218; or 52.690813, -3.362396.

From Dolgellau/Machynlleth/West – journey from Dolgellau should be approx 50 minutes

Follow the signs to Welshpool on the A458. Once through Llanerfyl, continue for approx 3 miles and take the A495 signposted to Meifod.

Turn left onto the A495 and take the third left turn, signposted Dolanog.

After approx two miles (it does seem longer, but keep going) take the second left and you head up the hill. Look out for our yellow sign.

(Should you miss this turning and end up in the village, you can take an alternate route – before the bridge in Dolanog, take this left turn – using the left fork. Then follow this up the hill for about 1 mile. After passing the crossroads at the top, we're about 300 yards on the left, set-back from the road. Be warned, this lane is quite narrow in places.)

At the junction at the top, you turn left. The signpost says Dolanog to the right... (Any satnav will be pointing you to turn right at this junction, but that is to the next door farm.) Look out for our yellow sign.

Once turned left, our drive is the first on the left after about 300 yards, set-back from the road. (There's another yellow sign!) There are signs with Gwaenynog on either side of the drive and the drive is about 150 yards, then park front into the white chain fence.

Our Ordnance Survey reference is: SJ 080112; or long/lat reference is: 308013, 311218; or 52.690813, -3.362396.

From Lake Vyrnwy – journey from should be approx 15-20 minutes, its 9 miles.

On leaving the Lake, take the B4393 signposted to Llanfyllin. Then turn right at the Llanfihangel Garage on the right. Follow the B4382 signposted to Dolanog and Llanfihangel. This is a pretty wiggly road, with passing places. Go through Llanfihangel, and upon reaching Dolanog pass the church on the right and after the bridge, take the right turn – using the left fork.

Then follow this up the hill for about 1 mile. After passing the crossroads at the top, we're about 300 yards on the left, set-back from the road. There are signs with Gwaenynog on either side of the drive and the drive is about 150 yards, then park with your nose or reverse towards the white chain fence. (This allows space for other guests and their cars.)

Our Ordnance Survey reference is: SJ 080112; or long/lat reference is: 308013, 311218; or 52.690813, -3.362396.